

A WELCOME TO DR. TOWER

The President-Elect of Montana University Receives Greetings From Helena Citizens.

Interesting Exercises and a Pleasant Reception at St. Paul's Methodist Church.

President Tower Outlines the Work of the New University and Gives Glowing Prospects for Its Future.

A public reception to welcome Dr. F. P. Tower, president-elect of the Montana university, was held at St. Paul's M. E. church last evening. The audience, though of good proportions would have been larger but for the inclement weather. The different speakers extended generous welcomes to the new president and promised their heartiest sympathy and co-operation in the work he has undertaken. The exercises were opened with the singing of a hymn by the audience. After reading a portion of the scriptures Rev. Mr. Shannon of Bozeman, offered prayer. It was expected that the reception would be opened with an address of welcome by Governor Toole. While he was unavoidably absent he sent a letter announcing his sympathy with the purposes of the university. Lieutenant-Governor Richards also sent his regards at his inability to be present.

Colonel W. F. Sanders, one of the trustees of the university, extended welcome for the city to President Tower. He said: "The new university is destined to be the crowning glory of the state of Montana. I hope you will all live to see the establishment of a university that you will point to with pride. We must endeavor to augment the interest of our people in schools. My experience has induced me to have faith in small beginnings. After nearly a year of search we have invited Dr. Tower to become president. He is to devote his time and life to the building of this institution and we extend to him a warm welcome."

During the interval following the audience listened to a well rendered instrumental solo by Prof. May. Rev. F. D. Kelley in extending a ministerial welcome to Dr. Tower said: "We extend the right hand of fellowship to you in this new state. We gladly welcome you as a grand brother to the work in the Lord's vineyard. We welcome you as a Methodist. When I see a Methodist I see the embodiment of human zeal for the church." In the absence of Dr. F. A. Higgins, Dr. Rawley, on behalf of the Montana conference, welcomed Dr. Tower to his work and announced that they would stand shoulder to shoulder in the new undertaking. Dr. Rawley said it was not the intention to inaugurate a sectarian institution or a Methodist college.

It was expected that Miss Mosier would entertain the audience with a solo, but her attendance was prevented by illness.

A solo by Mr. H. O. Jackson was rendered with expression and appreciation. Dr. Tower, the president elect, said in part: "I thank you most cordially for these kind words of welcome. When two months ago I looked at your city and saw such evidence of wealth and prosperity, I knew this institution had found a fitting location." Dr. Tower here enumerated the advantages of such an institution to Helena, and continuing said: "The building will be elegantly and completely furnished. It will cost nearly $50,000, and $20,000 in cash is needed. The trustees and officers have given $5,000." Dr. Tower thanked the donors for their generosity and the audience for their welcome. The audience was then dismissed with a benediction by Rev. Emil Uhl. A short reception was afterward held.

Dr. Tower, who is about 50 years old, is a native of Massachusetts. After his graduation from the Wesleyan University he did pastoral work in Brooklyn. For several years he has resided in Oregon, where he has been endowment agent for the Willamette University at Salem.

A Model Place.

Eric Shellin, of the Brunswick, Balke & Collier firm of Chicago, is in Helena supervising the placing of the fixtures belonging to I. Marks, who is going to re-open in the Morris building opposite the Grand Central on Main street at an early date. Mr. Marks is the oldest liquor dealer in Helena, and his place on the corner of Broadway and Main has long been a landmark to Montanians.

The fixtures are the finest ever seen in Montana—of mahogany and the mirrors are models of beauty. The front part of the building will be devoted to the wholesale trade and will be elaborately fitted up for liquors on one side and the wholesale and retail department for cigars and tobacco on the other side. This department is fitted in red oak with refrigerators to keep cigars in the primitive state they were sent from the east. The saloon has a white tile floor and the fixtures are of beautiful polished mahogany. Oxidized silver hardware is used whenever necessary. One of the features of the house is a cigar locker containing twenty-four lockers where each individual who wants can keep his box of cigars. To the locker he has a key and can smoke all the cigars himself or help his friends. The whole building will be brilliantly lighted by electricity, the fixtures being the finest furnished and the whole will complete an establishment superior to anything seen in the west between St. Paul and San Francisco. It will be opened some time next week.

Yesterday's Blizzard.

The snow blizzard that struck Helena yesterday morning was a gentle reminder that winter had come at last. It came from the northwest and at different times in the day blew in a blinding hurricane. It was predicted on Monday evening at the signal service station by Officer Hobbs. A peculiar feature was the thunder that occurred during the storm. It was unknown in the experience of the weather officer. The storm reached a speed of twenty-six miles an hour during the day and about two inches of snow fell. Last evening the barometer was rising, indicating a continuance of the storm. Officer Hobbs is endeavoring to organize a signal service for the state. There are volunteer stations at Glendive, Butte and several other points and he believes that they can be associated together for mutual work.

The Y. M. C. A. Makes a Change.

The unfortunate financial condition of the Y. M. C. A. has compelled that organization to abandon its gymnasium and rooms in the Granite block. An endeavor will be made to raise sufficient funds to enable the association to secure other quarters, where the meetings will be resumed and the gymnasium re-established. It is hoped that a capable secretary will soon be secured to look after the interests of the association. The members are requested to remove their effects from the gymnasium before November 15, when the lease expires.
